

MARKETING FOR COLLEGES FOREST FOUNDATION 2017 PROGRAM

Forest Foundation's 2017 Summer Internship program provides the opportunity for undergraduate college students in the United States, including graduating seniors, to gain experience in the non-profit world through paid, 10-week summer internships and accompanying leadership development program. Through placements at non-profit organizations in the Greater Boston area, interns engage in the general operations of an agency and help advance the agency's mission and work in the community. Included in the program are a series of 4 leadership and professional development workshop days facilitated by Forest Foundation and drawing upon experts in the community. www.forestfoundation.net

PROGRAM DETAILS:

- 65, 10-week paid internships at exceptional non-profit agencies in Greater Boston
- Prospective interns apply directly to Forest Foundation through a competitive application process. If accepted, a pairing process for an internship with a community partner host agency begins
- Interns engage in the general operations of the host agency while completing an independent project designed around both their personal interests and the agency's needs
- Leadership and Professional Development Workshop days introduce interns to issues of public policy, social entrepreneurship, foundations, grant-writing and non-profit management. Interns write real grant proposals and present to Forest Foundation's Board of Trustees.
- Compensation is $5,000 for 40 hours per week over 10 weeks from early June through early August.
